Other Professional Experience

Council Member, Social Labor Convergence Program, Amsterdam, Netherlands

February 2020 – Present

The Social Labor Convergence Program is an multi-stakeholder organization of global brands, manufacturers, retailers, audit firms, standards organizations, labor organizations, and governmental organizations seeking to develop a common protocol for compliance audits and a neutral and reliable platform for housing and making accessible audit data to assist diverse actors in the global garment sector to engage with the proliferation of public, private and vendor-specific standards and compliance protocols in the sector. The hope is that once a comprehensive reliable set of tools and data resources are developed for the garment sector, the Program will expand to address similar issues in other global sectors. I serve as one of three non-stakeholder experts on the Council, the governance body for the Program.

Advisor, New Conversations Project: Sustainable Labor Practices in Global Supply Chains, Cornell University, International Labor Relations School

May 2017 – Present

The New Conversations Project is a multi-stakeholder initiative comprised of academics, large global brands, international organizations, labor unions and federations and non-governmental organizations aimed at creating better and more sustainable working conditions in global supply chains, particularly in the garment sector.

Advisor, Service Employees International Union, Washington, D.C.

November 2005 –December 2007

I provided strategic advice to the Service Workers Union regarding international law, corporate law, governance and transnational organizing strategies. My work involved advising the SEIU on corporate issues in Spain and Brazil and assisting with the organization of a multinational conference hosted by the SEIU and Columbia Law School bringing together trade unionists, academics and lawyers from around the world to discuss strategies for organizing workers and enforcing workers rights and protections with respect to businesses operating in multiple countries. I also assisted in the organization of conference on Corporate Governance and Labor in Europe involving union leaders, heads of international labor federations, academics and business leaders to explore ways to make use of corporate governance regulation in the context of broader worker protection efforts in Europe.

Consultant, Library of Congress of Chile, Valparaiso and Santiago, Chile

January 2006

I was part of a delegation of eight scholars from around the world invited to assist the staff of the Chilean Library of Congress and various members of the Chilean legislature in analytic techniques of comparative law. The team of scholars offered a series of training sessions and then a formal conference on techniques of comparative law that focused on highlighting legislative choices rather than particular legal traditions or national “solutions” and identifying the effects of those choices on different political and social constituencies in Chile.

Advisor, Foreign Minister of Thailand, Bangkok, Thailand

September 2004 – January 2005

I was one of four members of the core planning group asked by Dr. Surakiart Sathirathai, then Foreign Minister of Thailand and a leading candidate to be Secretary General of the United Nations, to convene a working group of international experts from law, economics, political science, sociology and the private sector to help develop a vision for more accountable and humane global governance and to explore innovative opportunities for the United Nations in the context of a broader global governance regime.

Of Counsel, Feinberg & Associates, Newton, MA

September 2002 – December 2006

This firm specializes in the representation of start-ups and young companies. I consulted on corporate law and intellectual property management and protection.

Founder, Bull's Eye Entertainment, Los Angeles, CA/Cambridge, MA

August 2001 – June 2002

Bull's Eye Entertainment was a media consulting, marketing and production company created to facilitate relationships between entertainment content producers and national advertisers in the fields of television, motion pictures, music and theater. I served as general partner and ran the advertising relations side of the business.

Executive Vice President—General Counsel and Corporate Secretary

Executive Vice President—Content and Product Development

Europe Online Networks S.A., Luxembourg

November 1999 – March 2001

Europe Online Networks S.A. was a Luxembourg-based pan-European provider of enhanced broadband Internet and multimedia entertainment services to consumers' homes via satellite. As General Counsel I was responsible for all legal and corporate aspects of the company's business in 27 countries including negotiating more than €150 million in financing for the company. I also served as Executive Vice President—Content and Product Development and was in charge of deals with telecommunications and entertainment companies and other content providers, as well as product design and development from a creative perspective. In this capacity I supervised a staff of about 100 people.

Partner, Foley, Hoag & Eliot LLP, Boston, MA

January 1998 – October 1999 (Partner)

September 1991 – December 1997 (Associate)

Foley, Hoag is large full-service law firm headquartered in Boston with offices in New York, Paris and Washington, D.C. My practice focused on the representation of technology, media and telecommunications companies in international business ventures. I specialized in corporate finance, mergers and acquisitions, licensing and distribution arrangements and intellectual property management and protection.

Law Clerk, U.S. Court of Appeals, Sixth Circuit, Cincinnati, OH

Honorable Nathaniel R. Jones

August 1990 – September 1991

Stagiaire, Commission of the European Union, Brussels, Belgium

August 1989 – July 1990

I worked as a legal counsel in the Cabinet of President Jacques Delors advising on comparative federalism issues, in the Directorate General Competition on airline deregulation and in the Directorate General Information Society on issues relating to the legal protection of software.
