We are One Northeastern: A Faculty Professional Development Series

A joint partnership between the Office of the Provost and Northeastern's global campus network

Professional development opportunities are key to faculty growth and enhancing satisfaction. Through a faculty survey, we learned that colleagues at our regional campuses would be quite interested in such opportunities. Thus, through a joint effort between the Office of the Provost and the regional deans and associate deans, we are launching this series in fall 2021. We'll choose a different campus for each in-person program and invite faculty from all other regional campuses to join virtually. We believe this will be a great way to increase the collaboration both within and across Northeastern's campuses. We hope you will join!

Kickoff Topic: "Coming back to the Classroom: Expanding Pedagogy, Embracing Technology, and Collaborating with Colleagues"

Who: All faculty at Northeastern's regional campuses

Where: Northeastern University Seattle campus, 225 Terry Avenue North, Seattle, WA

When: Thursday, October 28, 2021, 3:00-5:30pm (Pacific Time), followed by wine and cheese

Teams Link: A Faculty Professional Development Series—Join Here

Join your colleagues at the Seattle campus for the first in the 2021-22 series of faculty professional development activities hosted by the Provost and the Senior Vice Provost for Academic Affairs and the Dean and Associate Dean of the Seattle campus. Provost David Madigan will kick off our series in person in Seattle, followed by guest speakers who will discuss opportunities and challenges of returning to the classroom and utilizing new technologies in our teaching. We'll also spend some time thinking together about the ways that faculty can collaborate, both within their campus and across our campuses, and top off the afternoon with a social hour to chat more informally with administrator and faculty colleagues.
